

Auckland Airport

Auckland International Airport has 3 terminals – the International Terminal, Domestic Terminal and Air New Zealand Domestic Terminal. A free shuttle bus runs between them and passengers can also walk between the terminals.

Airport facilities

There are numerous restaurants, cafés and bars at the airport, including the Jean Batten Food Court, on the first floor, with a number of speciality eateries, including an espresso bar, Asian cuisine and a sushi bar. There are over 75 shops situated throughout the airport, including duty-free.

Banks with bureau de change facilities are located throughout the International Terminal. ATMs can be found throughout the airport. Internet kiosks and mobile phone hire are also available.

The Collection Point offers a left-luggage facility; a left-luggage and sealing service is also available on the ground floor of the International Terminal. Lost property is handled by the airport police.

Other Facilities

There is a medical centre and telephones for first aid, nurseries, a chapel, a children's play area and playgrounds, a museum, exercycles, massage and free showers. There is even a golf course, a mini golf, and day rooms for hire (available from The Collection Point).

Disabled facilities include automatic doors, lifts, wheelchair assistance in the International Terminal, accessible toilets and showers, as well as ATMs with Braille keys. There are also disabled parking spaces in front of the terminals and in the airport car parks. Passengers requiring wheelchairs and special assistance should inform their airline prior to travel.

Information and Help Desks

The Visitors Information Centre is located on the ground floor of the Arrivals hall in the International Terminal and in both the Domestic Terminals, open for all flights. Blue Coat ambassadors also provide passenger assistance in the International Terminal and the Air New Zealand Domestic Terminal.

Conference and Business Facilities

There are two conference rooms on the top floor of the International Terminal and a further three rooms in the Air New Zealand Domestic Terminal. Laptop computer connections are available in the reading/writing area. All international airlines provide VIP lounges.
